

Global Asbestos Awareness Week Declaration for a Worldwide Asbestos Ban

Whereas Global Asbestos Awareness Week, April 1-7, has been designated as a week to raise awareness about the dangers of asbestos and to ban asbestos;

Whereas asbestos is a known human carcinogen and has been classified by the International Agency for Research on Cancer as a Group 1 human carcinogen;

Whereas inhalation of airborne asbestos fibers of all types can cause cancer such as mesothelioma (cancer of the lung lining), gastrointestinal, laryngeal, ovarian and lung cancer, as well as asbestosis and other respiratory problems;

Whereas no safe minimum level of exposure has been identified for any type of asbestos;

Whereas asbestos-related diseases can take 10 to 50 years to present themselves;

Whereas the usual expected survival time for those diagnosed with mesothelioma is between 6 and 24 months;

Whereas workers' family and community members are also at risk of disease from asbestos fibers brought into their homes or otherwise released into the environment;

Whereas the former U.S. Surgeon General Dr. Regina Benjamin stated, "Anyone who disturbs asbestos is at risk";

Whereas the World Health Organization states, "More than 107,000 people die each year from asbestos-related lung cancer, mesothelioma and asbestosis resulting from occupational exposures" – which translates into around 300 people each day from preventable asbestos-caused diseases;

Whereas the World Health Organization states, "125 million people in the world are exposed to asbestos at the workplace";

Whereas the World Health Organization states, "One in every three deaths from occupational cancer is estimated to be caused by asbestos";

Whereas annually United States asbestos consumption continues around the 1,000-ton level;

Whereas the United States stopped mining asbestos in 2002 and Canada stopped in 2011, but the lack of asbestos bans in both countries allows imports of asbestos and asbestos products:

Whereas in 2012 all asbestos imported and used in the United States was chrysotile, solely sourced from Brazil;

Whereas the world production of asbestos from 1900 to 2013 totaled nearly 200,000,000 metric tons;

Whereas in 2012, Russia, China, Brazil, and Kazakhstan were the largest asbestos producers in the world;

Whereas a global network of lobby groups have spent nearly $100 million since the mid-1980s to preserve the international asbestos market;

Whereas over 90% of the world production of chrysotile asbestos is used in the manufacture of asbestos-cement, in the form of pipes, sheets and shingles;

Whereas there are numerous proven substitutes for asbestos products;

Whereas more than 50 countries have banned asbestos, but neither the United States nor Canada have banned asbestos;

Whereas the U.S. Toxic Substances Control Act of 1976 has failed to ban asbestos;

Therefore be it urgently resolved that we, the signatories of the Global Asbestos Awareness Week Declaration for a Worldwide Asbestos Ban, support the World Health Organization (WHO), in collaboration with the International Labour Organization and with other intergovernmental organizations and civil society to work towards elimination of asbestos-related diseases, in the following WHO strategic directions:

- “Recognizing that the only most efficient way to eliminate asbestos-related diseases is to stop the use of all types of asbestos;
- Replacing asbestos with safer substitutes and developing economic and technological mechanisms to stimulate its replacement and support workers and communities in a just transition;
- Taking measures to prevent exposure to asbestos in place and during asbestos removal (abatement), and;
- Improving early diagnosis, treatment, social and medical rehabilitation for of asbestos-related diseases and establishing registries of people with past and/or current exposures to asbestos.”
